7. What is our legal basis for Processing your Personal Information?

- 7.1. We will only process your Personal Information in accordance with applicable Data Protection laws, which require that we must satisfy at least one prescribed legal basis for Processing

Personal Information. Depending on the context of the Processing activity, we rely on a number of different conditions for the activities we carry out. The legal bases we rely on include:

- 7.1.1. where we need to perform under an agreement that we have concluded with you, e.g. to meet our obligations in terms of a contract we have concluded;
- 7.1.2. where the law requires us to do so;
- 7.1.3. where you have consented to such Processing; or
- 7.1.4. where it is necessary for our legitimate interests (or those of a third party) and your interests and fundamental rights do not override those legitimate interests.

7.2 Where we process information based on legitimate interest you have the right to make submissions and request, we cease Processing your Personal Information based on your own unique circumstances.

7.3 In rare cases, we may process your Personal Information where:

- 7.3.1 we need to protect your interests (or another person's interests); or
- 7.3.2 we need to do so in the public interest.

7.4 Some of the above grounds for Processing will overlap and there may be several grounds which justify our use of your Personal Information. Should you require an explanation on the exact lawful ground(s) relied on to process your Personal Information in a given context, please contact our Data Protection Office.

8. Are you obliged to provide us with your Personal Information?

8.1 As a registered Credit Bureau, Experian is required by law to collect and process your Consumer Credit Information (which qualifies as Personal Information) if you are a consumer under the NCA. In this instance, you do not have to provide us with your Consumer Credit Information, as it will be collected directly from original sources of Consumer Credit Information.

8.2 When you engage with our website, staff, products, or services:

- 8.2.1 Website: The collection of certain Personal Information via essential cookies is necessary for the effective functionality for our website. In these instances, we will communicate this to you when you first arrive at our website. We obtain your consent when we use non-essential cookies, or technology similar to cookies, and/or collect information about the device you use to access our website. Sometimes we work with third parties who carry out these activities on our behalf. You will be asked to consent to the use of non-essential cookies before using our website, but you are not obliged to provide such consent. The Processing of information via non-essential cookies is voluntary.
- 8.2.2 Engagement with our staff: When you contact Experian for assistance, we will ask you to provide some Personal Information such as a copy of your ID for verification purposes. The provision of this information is not mandatory but failure to provide such information may negatively affect the quality of service you receive.

8.2.3 Products or services: When you enquire about or apply for Experian products or services, we will ask you to provide some Personal Information for us to enter into an agreement and provide the products and services accordingly. This information may include a request for Identity Documents, information required for due diligence as well as a signed contractual agreement which may contain Personal Information. This information is necessary for us to manage our relationship and effectively meet our obligations. Failure to provide information needed may result in our inability to enter into an agreement and / or perform accordingly.

9. How do we secure your Personal Information?

- 9.1 We take the necessary technical and organisational measures to secure the integrity of information we are responsible for, using accepted technological standards to prevent unauthorised access to or disclosure of your Personal Information. We take all reasonable measures to protect your Personal Information from misuse, loss, alteration, or destruction.
- 9.2 We have put in place appropriate security measures to protect your Personal Information from accidental loss, unauthorised use, alteration, access, or disclosure. In addition, we limit access to your Personal Information to those employees, agents, contractors and other third parties who have a business need to access the information. They will only process your Personal Information on our instructions and are subject to a duty of confidentiality.
- 9.3 We review our information collection, storage and Processing practices, including physical security measures from time to time, to keep up to date with good industry practice and standards.
- 9.4 Experian has implemented procedures to address any suspected data breaches and will notify you and any applicable regulator of a breach where Experian is legally required to do so within the period in which Experian is required to issue such a notification.

10. Retention of Your Personal Information

- 10.1 We will only retain your Personal Information for as long as necessary to achieve the purposes for which it was collected and processed. Meaning, we will keep your Personal Information for as long as we need it to provide the Experian products and services you have requested, or as long as necessary, to provide services for our clients, and no longer. We may also keep it to comply with our legal obligations, resolve any disputes and enforce our rights.
- 10.2 Experian retains your Personal Information in our credit information database in accordance with the data retention periods prescribed by the NCA and other applicable legislations. For example, the NCA Regulations require that we display and use various categories of your information only for the maximum periods prescribed for the purpose of credit scoring or credit assessment. We ensure that this information is not displayed for these purposes beyond the maximum periods prescribed.
- 10.3 We retain certain elements of your information as long as is necessary, for the purpose of verifying the integrity of information that we may be required to process in the future or for information quality purposes (i.e. to prevent the re-loading of incorrect information). This information is securely stored and not used for any other purpose than information quality in support of our regulatory obligation to ensure the data we have is relevant and accurate and not duplicated.

10.4 Our reasons for retention may vary from one record or piece of information to the next and depend on the purposes for the storage and related operational business requirements and/ or legal obligations, therefore the amount of time we keep your Personal Information for may vary.

10.5 In all cases, our need to use your Personal Information will be reassessed on a regular basis, and information which is no longer required for any purpose, will be disposed of.

11. Sharing of your Personal Information

11.1 As a general rule, we will only share your Personal Information with those that need access to the information for us to achieve the purpose for which we have collected it, or to comply with an obligation imposed by law.

11.2 Where consent is required by the NCA, Experian will only release Consumer Credit Information upon receipt of the consumer's consent. Experian is obliged to comply with Section 68 of the NCA pursuant to which we use a consumer or a prospective consumer's information only for the purpose permitted in terms of the NCA or other applicable legislation.

11.3 Experian will report or release that information only to the consumer, prospective consumer or to another person:

11.3.1 to the extent permitted or required by the NCA or other applicable legislation;

11.3.2 as directed by the instructions of the consumer or prospective consumer; or

11.3.3 an order of a court or tribunal.

11.4 Internally, we will only share your Personal Information on a "need-to-know" basis, i.e. with parties who need access to the information to perform a task on our behalf, which includes:

11.4.1 other divisions or companies within the group of companies to which we belong so as to provide joint content and services like registration, for transactions and customer support, to help detect and prevent potentially illegal acts and violations of our policies, and to guide decisions about our products, services, and communications;

11.4.2 a partner/affiliate, in which case we will seek to require the partner/affiliate to honour our Privacy Notice;

11.4.3 our third-party service providers under contract who help supply certain goods or help with parts of our business operations, including fraud prevention, bill collection, marketing, technology services (our contracts dictate that these goods suppliers or service providers only use your information in connection with the goods they supply or services they perform for us and not for their own benefit). Experian ensures that all third-party service providers who process Personal Information on our behalf are bound by written contracts. These contracts include obligations to implement appropriate technical and organisational measures to safeguard personal information.

12. Transborder flow of your Personal Information

- 12.1 We store your Personal Information in South Africa.
- 12.2 Under limited circumstances, we may store your Personal Information on, and transfer your Personal Information to a central database located outside the borders of South Africa, for the performance of centralised functions for our Group of companies.
- 12.3 If the location of the central database is located in a country that does not have substantially similar laws which provide the same level of protection to your Personal Information, we will take the necessary steps to ensure that your Personal Information is adequately protected in that jurisdiction.
- 12.4 We may engage third-party service providers to support our business and they may be based or use data centers outside of South Africa. Whenever your Personal Information is transferred cross border, it will receive a similar level of protection as described in this Notice.

13. Exercising your rights

13.1 This section is only to be used to exercise your privacy rights as provided for in Data Protection laws. All credit bureau information is governed by the NCA, and any requests which relate to bureau information should be dealt with using the NCA consumer dispute process. For more information on our dispute process, click Disputes Process.

13.2 You may have rights under applicable Data Protection laws in relation to your Personal Information, which you may exercise under certain circumstances. To exercise these rights, kindly follow the links relating to the right which will provide you with access to the prescribed form as provided for under each right below, fill it in its entirety and send to informationofficerafrica@experian.com. 13.3.4 Request erasure/deletion of your Personal Information. This enables you to request that Experian delete/ erase/ remove Personal Information where there is no lawful basis for us continuing to process it. Click here to request deletion/ erasure/ removal of your Personal Information. Experian may not always be able to comply with your request for specific legal reasons which we will inform you of, for example, where the data is processed in terms of the NCA.

13.3.5 Withdraw your consent provided to process your Personal Information. However, this will not affect the lawfulness of any Processing carried out before you withdraw your consent. If you withdraw your consent, we may not be able to provide certain products or services to you. We will advise you if this is the case at the time you withdraw your consent. Please note that we may continue to process your Personal Information in certain instances where we are not relying on your consent. To withdraw your consent to Processing, please make use of the same channels used to provide consent or use the opt-out functionality provided in all our communications. Alternatively, email the Data Protection Office.

13.3.6 Object to Processing of your Personal Information. Under certain circumstances, you may have the right to object to the Processing of your Personal Information, this includes your right to object to Processing based on legitimate interest. Please click here should you wish to object. Please contact our Data Protection Office to ascertain what Processing we conduct on legitimate interest to allow for you to object based on your own unique circumstances. Where you exercise your right to object telephonically, please note that POPIA requires Experian to electronically record the objection. A copy of the recording or its transcription will be made available to you on request, free of charge.

There is no cost to access your Personal Information (or to exercise any of the other rights). However, we may charge a reasonable fee where we are of the opinion that your request for access is clearly unfounded, excessive or you request to access a comprehensive report on all information we may hold on you.

We may need to request specific information from you to help us confirm your identity and ensure your right to access that information (or to exercise any of your other rights) is legitimate. This is another appropriate security measure to ensure that Personal Information is not disclosed to any person who has no right to receive it.

14. Maintenance of your Personal Information

- 14.1 We encourage you to assist us in maintaining the accuracy of Personal Information by notifying us of any changes or by meeting your legal obligations regarding the dispute/s you have logged.
- 14.2 Where Personal Information is submitted to Experian in terms of the NCA, we cannot alter the information reported by providers of Personal Information unless the information is confirmed to be wrong or inaccurate by the provider of the Personal Information (this is because the NCA has a clear procedure for managing disputes and the provider of the Personal Information is the Responsible Party, which includes being responsible for maintaining the accuracy of the Personal Information).
- 14.3 Where Experian is the Responsible Party and you do not agree with the accuracy of your Personal Information which Experian has on file, we have procedures to ensure that such information is verified, and, where appropriate, amended or corrected. Please refer to our privacy rights section above.

15. Queries and Complaints

- 15.1 For any questions about this Privacy Notice, please contact our Data Protection Office at informationofficerafrica@experian.com. Our team is available to assist with any privacy-related queries or complaints. Should you wish to lodge a complaint with us regarding the Processing of your Personal Information, please click here to access our complaint form.
